Amy M.

Ten years ago this month I reached out to ADAAP for help with my problem with Alcohol. My ADAAP counselor took a very personal approach. She challenged me to get sober & encouraged me when I felt overwhelmed. ADAAP was instrumental in my facing and understanding my disease. I've had over a decade of sobriety, largely because of the support, guidance and first steps I got from the staff at ADAAP!

The staff here is very attentive, informational and they keep you on the road to recovery. The hours are flexible and the prices are affordable.

Amanda A.

This program helped me to look at the parts of my life I was ignoring and refused to see. Once I recognized and accepted these situations, I started doing the healing and recovery work! Thank you ADAAP.

John S.

At the beginning I was nervous and didn't know what to expect. I was immediately made to feel welcome. After a couple of weeks I began to look forward to coming here each week and not only making more and more progress, but seeing the progress made by everyone. We could relate on so many levels, not only substance abuse, but legal issues as well.
I couldn't have done it without ADAAP!

Are You God's Wife?

In New York City, on a cold day in December, some years ago, little Bobby, about 10-years-old, was standing before a shoe store on the roadway, barefooted, peering through the window and shivering with cold.

A lady approached the young boy and said, "My, but you're in such deep thought staring in that window!"

"I was just asking God to give me a pair of shoes," was Bobby's reply.

The lady took the boy by the hand, went into the store, and asked the clerk to get half a dozen pairs of socks for the boy. She then asked if he could give her a basin of water, some soap, and a towel. He quickly brought them to her.

She took the little fellow to the back part of the store and removing her gloves, knelt down, washed his little feet, and dried them with the towel.

By this time, the clerk had returned with the socks. Placing a pair upon the boy's feet, she purchased him a pair of boots.

She tied up the remaining pairs of socks and gave them to him. She gently patted him on the shoulder and said, "No doubt, you will be more comfortable now."

As she turned to go, the astonished boy caught her by the hand and looking up into her face, with tears in his eyes, asked her,
"Are you God's wife?"

To Build a Bridge

The Brooklyn Bridge that spans the river tying Manhattan Island to Brooklyn is truly a miracle bridge. In 1863, a creative engineer named John Roebling was inspired by an idea for this spectacular bridge. However, bridge-building experts throughout the world told him to forget it; it could not be done.

Roebling convinced his son, Washington, who was a young up and coming engineer, that the bridge could be built. The two of them developed the concepts of how it could be accomplished, and how the obstacles could be overcome. With unharnessed excitement and inspiration they hired their crew and began to build their dream bridge.

The project was only a few months under construction when a tragic accident on the site took the life of John Boebling and severely injured his son. Washington was left with permanent brain damage and was unable to talk or walk. Everyone felt that the project would have to be scrapped since the Roeblings were the only ones who knew how the bridge could be built.

Even though Washington was unable to move or talk, his mind was as sharp as ever, and he still had a burning desire to complete the bridge. An idea hit him as he lay in the hospital bed, and he developed a code for communication. All he could move was one finger, so he touched the arm of his wife with that finger, tapping out the code to communicate to her what to tell the engineers who were building the bridge. For thirteen years, Washington tapped out his instructions with his finger until the spectacular Brooklyn Bridge was finally completed.

The young mother was ready for a few minutes of relaxation after a long and demanding day. However, her young daughter had other plans for her mother's time.

"Read me a story, Mom," the little girl requested. "Give Mommy a few minutes to relax and unwind. Then I'll be happy to read you a story," pleaded the mother.

The little girl was insistent that Mommy read to her now. With a stroke of genius, the mother tore off the back page of the magazine she was reading. It contained a full-page picture of the world. As she tore it into several pieces, Mom asked her daughter to put the picture together and then she would read her a story. Surely this would buy her considerable relaxing moments.

A short time later, the little girl announced the completion of her puzzle project. To her astonishment, she found the world picture completely assembled. When she asked her daughter how she managed to do it so quickly, the little girl explained that on the reverse side of the page was the picture of a little girl. "You see, Mommy, when I got the little girl together, the whole world came together."

Each of us has the responsibility to put our world together. It starts by getting ourselves put together. We can become better parents, friends, spouses, employees, and employers.
