Judy M.

Without a doubt, hands down, ADAAP is the finest IOP rehab in all of Austin! Their staff is first class & their curriculum provides clients the tools to deal with their recovery & relapse prevention! ADAAP counselors help participants to openly examine themselves & their life choices, so they can be healed! I thoroughly recommend this awesome place!

Amy M.

Ten years ago this month I reached out to ADAAP for help with my problem with Alcohol. My ADAAP counselor took a very personal approach. She challenged me to get sober & encouraged me when I felt overwhelmed. ADAAP was instrumental in my facing & understanding my disease. I've had over a decade of sobriety, largely because of the support, guidance & first steps I got from the staff at ADAAP!

Amanda A.

This program helped me to look at the parts of my life I was ignoring & refused to see. Once I recognized & accepted these situations, I started doing the healing & recovery work! Thank you ADAAP.

John S.

At the beginning I was nervous & didn't know what to expect. I was immediately made to feel welcome. After a couple of weeks I began to look forward to coming here each week & not only making more & more progress, but seeing the progress made by everyone. We could relate on so many levels, not only substance abuse, but legal issues as well.

I couldn't have done it without ADAAP!

Mama's Boy

A mother was concerned about her only son going off to college. She wrote the following letter to the college president.

Dear Sir:

My son has been accepted for admission to your college & soon he will be leaving me. I am writing to ask that you give your personal attention to the selection of his roommate.

I want to be sure that his roommate is not the kind of person who uses foul language, or tells off-color jokes, smokes, drinks, takes drugs, or chases after girls.

I hope you will understand why I am appealing to you directly. You see, this is the first time my son will be away from home, except for his 3 years in the Marine Corps.

$1000 or $2000?

The story goes that quite a few years ago before insurance took over, there was an 82-year-old obstetrician in Bridgeport CT who looked like one of those memorable

Norman Rockwell covers for the Saturday Evening Post -- silvery white hair, twinkling blue eyes, ruddy cheeks, a perky bow tie -- who delivered over 2000 babies in his illustrious career. Furthermore, his charge for his invaluable services was either one thousand or two thousand dollars.

Naturally, people were curious to know how he decided which bill to submit. Did he look up the father's financial rating? "Nonsense, I couldn't care less," he answered. "What then?" he was asked.

"It's very simple," smiled the doctor. "Every time I deliver a baby, the father is pacing nervously up & down in the waiting room. When I put my hand on his shoulder & tell him, "Congratulations! You have a beautiful new baby," he invariably asks me one of two questions. If it's a boy or girl? I charge him $2000, but if he asks me, "Tell me doc, how's my wife?", I only charge him a $1000."

No Occupation

She rises up at break of day, & through her tasks she races, She cooks the meals as best she may, & scrubs the children's faces; While school books, lunches, ribbons, all need consideration.

And yet the census man insists, "She has No Occupation."

When breakfast dishes are all done, she bakes a pudding maybe; She cleans the rooms up, one by one, with one eye watching baby; The mending pile she then attacks, by way of variation.

And yet the census man insists, "She has No Occupation."

She irons for a little while, then presses pants for daddy; She welcomes with a cheery smile, returning lass & laddie. A hearty dinner next she cooks (No time for relaxation).

And yet the census man insists, "She has No Occupation."

For lessons that the children learn, the evening scarce is ample; To "mother dear" they always turn for help with each example. In grammar & geography, she finds her relaxation.

And yet the census man insists, "She has No Occupation."
