Clayton B. » (2014 ADAAP IOP Graduate)
I was so impressed with how loving & caring everyone was. I could open up & be honest without being judged. I could be myself. I felt nothing but caring & acceptance. Dan Davey's advice really helped me. He told me to listen & stop talking! I was so surprised at what I learned.

This program helped me to look at the parts of my life I was ignoring & refused to see. Once I recognized & accepted these situations, I started doing the healing & recovery work!
Thank you ADAAP.

Without a doubt, hands down, ADAAP is the finest IOP rehab in all of Austin! Their staff is first class & their curriculum provides clients the tools to deal with their recovery & relapse prevention! ADAAP counselors help participants to openly examine themselves & their life choices, so they can be healed! I thoroughly recommend this awesome place!

Karen
I've been in other treatment programs before where they focused just on the steps & not on you as a person. At ADAAP, I learned a lot about myself & how to love myself. I didn't have much self esteem when I started the program. I learned I'm a good person despite my past guilt & shame.

This program is good. People are easy to get along with, being together in staying sober. I've been working out more (taking care of my body) & actually spending more time with my family!

Tiffany M. » (2014 ADAAP IOP Graduate)
This program definitely works. It helped me not only how to stay sober but to want to stay sober. Hearing everyone gave me an insight as to where I want to be.

A Brother Like That (From Chicken Soup for the Soul)

A friend of mine named Paul received an automobile from his brother for a Christmas gift. On Christmas Eve, when Paul came out of his office, a street urchin was walking around his shiny new car, admiring it. "Is this your car, Mister?" he asked.

Paul nodded. "My brother gave it to me for Christmas." The boy was astounded. "You mean your brother gave it to you & it didn't cost you nothing? Boy, I wish..." He hesitated.

Of course Paul knew what he was going to wish for. He was going to wish he had a brother like that. But what the child said jarred Paul all the way down to his heels.

"I wish," said the lad, "that I could be a brother like that."
Paul looked at the boy in astonishment & impulsively asked, "Would you like to take a ride?"
"Oh, yes, I'd love that!"

After a short ride, the boy turned, & with his eyes aglow, said, "Mister, would you mind driving in front of my house?"

Paul smiled a little. He thought he knew what the lad wanted. He wanted to show his neighbors that he could ride home in a big automobile. But Paul was wrong again. "Will you stop where those two steps are?" asked the boy.

He ran up the steps. Then in a little while Paul heard him come back, but he was not coming fast. He was carrying his little crippled brother. He sat him down on the bottom step, & then sort of squeezed up against him & pointed to the car.

"There she is Buddy, just like I told you. His brother gave it to him for Christmas, & it didn't cost him a cent. And some day, I'm going to give you one just like it. then you can see for yourself, all the pretty things in the Christmas windows that I've been telling you about."

Paul got out & lifted the little boy to the front seat of his car. The elder brother climbed in beside him & the three of them began a memorable holiday ride. That Christmas Eve Paul

Needed - The Personal Touch

A man stopped at a flower shop to order some flowers to be wired to his mother who lived 200 miles away. As he got out of his car., he noticed a young girl sitting on the curb sobbing. He asked her what was wrong & she replied: "I wanted to buy a red rose for my mother. But I only have 75 cents & a rose costs $2. the man smiled, "come on in with me. I'll buy you a rose."

He bought the little girl her rose & ordered his own mother's flowers. As they were leaving, he offered the girl a ride home. she said, "Yes please! You can take me to my mother." She directed him to a cemetery where she placed the rose on a freshly dug grave. The man returned to the flower shop, canceled he wire order, picked up a bouquet & drove the 200 miles to his mother's home.

A Salute to NON-Mothers

by Erma Bombeck

There aren't any songs sung for them. There aren't many appropriate cards written for them. There aren't any days set aside for them. They are people who experience all the joy, the caring & the pain of motherhood. They just aren't there at delivery. Some non-mothers are disguised as teachers who spend more time with the children than the mothers. They contribute ambition, hope & expertise, time & a sense of self to the child. After all, isn't that what a mother is all about?

Other non-mothers are older brothers & sisters of a child who share bedrooms, pizza & their lives. They take them to the bathroom, the movies on Sunday & hold them while they are rejected by a parent, & there is no one else to cling to. Isn't that what a mother is all about?

There's the father-non-mother who pinch-hits occasionally at getting meals, mopping up or sitting through a pageant when mother can't do it. He offers a back-up system of support, sharing & security. Isn't that what a mother's all about?

Some non-mothers have experience. They're called grandparents, & whether their custody of a child is occasional, part-time or full-time, they add to the child another dimension of another time - another set of values, an appreciation for the things that endure. Isn't that what a mother's all about?
