This program is good. People are easy to get along with, being together in staying sober. I've been working out more (taking care of my body) & actually spending more time with my family!

ADAAP's treatment program is very beneficial, led by ultra-caring counselors. Frank was amazing, covering the material thoroughly, until everyone understood & embraced the principles of sobriety.

I was so impressed with how loving & caring everyone was. I could open up & be honest without being judged. I could be myself. I felt nothing but caring & acceptance. Dan Davey's advice really helped me. He told me to listen & stop talking! I was so surprised at what I learned.

I was scared when I first started ADAAP's Intensive Out Patient Program. I had always thought that I could handle anything, & certainly could handle THIS! I learned that I wasn't really different. It came to me that these people in IOP were telling MY story. This eventually opened my eyes & sent me back to AA. I had been so focused on my case & its legalities, I couldn't think about anything else. One day a fellow student said he had two tracks to his life: one was his court case & then the other track was his IOP. He had no power over the courts but he did have power over himself. I learned that just because an event happens, it doesn't have to have a bad result. What's important is how I react to the event. I am currently very active in my home group. One of the greatest things that happened to me during the program was that I gained the courage to end my codependent relationship.

I've been in other treatment programs before where they focused just on the steps & not on you as a person. At ADAAP, I learned a lot about myself & how to love myself. I didn't have much self esteem when I started the program. I learned I'm a good person despite my past guilt & shame.

The Smile!

Antoine St. Exupery, author of The Little Prince, wrote of a life experience, while a captive of Spanish Civil War enemy Fascists.

From his jailers' contemptuous looks & rough treatment, St. Exupery became quite certain, he would be executed the following day.

"I was sure that I was to be killed. I became terribly nervous & distraught. I fumbled in my pockets to see if there were any cigarettes which had escaped their search. I found one & because of my shaking hands, I could barely get it to my lips. But I had no matches. They had confiscated those. I looked through the bars at my jailer. He did not make eye contact with me. After all, one does not make eye contact with a thing, a corpse. I called out to him. "Have you got a light, por favor?" He looked at me, shrugged & came over to light my cigarette."

"As he came close & lit the match, his eyes inadvertently locked with mine. At that moment, I smiled. In that instant, it was as though a spark jumped across the gap between our two hearts, our two human souls. I know he didn't want to, but my smile leaped through the bars & generated a smile on his lips, too. He lit my cigarette & stayed near, looking at me directly in the eyes & continuing to smile. I kept smiling at him, now aware of him as a person & not just a jailer. And his looking at me seemed to have a new dimension too. "Do you have kids?" he asked."

"Yes. Here! Here!" I took out my wallet & nervously fumbled for the pictures of my family. He, too, took out the pictures of his ninos & began to talk about his plans & hopes for them. My eyes filled with tears. I said that I was afraid that I'd never see my family again ,never have the chance to see them grow up. Tears came to his eyes, too."

Suddenly, without another word, he unlocked my cell, led me silently out of jail, quietly down back routes, & out of the town. There, at the edge of town, he released me. And without another word, he turned back toward the town.

God is Our (Always) On the Job Security Guard

Dorothy Nicholos, Ashboro, NC

We were sitting at the table in our Florida kitchen & talking to our next-door neighbors. This young couple had helped us a lot in the past year & a half, after my stroke & my husband's leg injury. Unexpectedly the husband began telling us the story of his troubled past. At age 16, he'd fallen in with the wrong crowd in his hometown of Greenwood, SC, & had spent a year in a reformatory. When he was released, he'd had good intentions, but now because of his record, he couldn't find a job.

He became desperate & decided to rob a local service station so he could have enough money to leave the state. He stole his father's car & gun & just before closing time, drove up to the service window of a gasoline station. He was about to demand all the money from the woman manager. But just then, he looked up & saw the sign overhead. It read "GOD IS OUR SECURITY GUARD - ALWAYS ON THE JOB" And he knew he couldn't rob that place.

He then rushed home & prayed all night. He was determined to get his life straightened out. And with God's help, he did. As he finished, I looked at my husband. Both of us remembered a night 13 years ago when I sat at our kitchen table in the same town of Greenwood, SC, trying to make a sign for our business. I had scribbled down several words. Then finally it came to me, the slogan that my husband put on the sign that stood on the roof of the small service station that we managed:

[GOD IS OUR SECURITY GUARD • ALWAYS ON THE JOB]
