This program is good. People are easy to get along with, being together in staying sober. I've been working out more (taking care of my body) & actually spending more time with my family!

Austin C.

The staff here is very attentive, informational & they keep you on the road to recovery. The hours are flexible & the prices are affordable.

This program definitely works. It helped me not only how to stay sober but to want to stay sober. Hearing everyone gave me an insight as to where I want to be.

I've been in other treatment programs before where they focused just on the steps & not on you as a person. At ADAAP, I learned a lot about myself & how to love myself. I didn't have much self esteem when I started the program. I learned I'm a good person despite my past guilt & shame.

Without a doubt, hands down, ADAAP is the finest IOP rehab in all of Austin! Their staff is first class & their curriculum provides clients the tools to deal with their recovery & relapse prevention! ADAAP counselors help participants to openly examine themselves & their life choices, so they can be healed! I thoroughly recommend this awesome place!

I was so impressed with how loving & caring everyone was. I could open up & be honest without being judged. I could be myself. I felt nothing but caring & acceptance. Dan Davey's advice really helped me. He told me to listen & stop talking! I was so surprised at what I learned.

Amanda A.

This program helped me to look at the parts of my life I was ignoring & refused to see. Once I recognized & accepted these situations, I started doing the healing & recovery work!

Thank you ADAAP.

Ten years ago this month I reached out to ADAAP for help with my problem with Alcohol. I didn't really know where else to turn to, & I truly didn't believe anyone could help me. ADAAP was an amazing experience helping me get on the road of recovering.

Who's Your Daddy?

A seminary professor was vacationing with his wife in Gatlinburg, TN. One morning, they were eating breakfast at a little restaurant, hoping to enjoy a quiet, family meal. While they were waiting for their food, they noticed a distinguished looking, white-haired man moving from table to table, visiting with the guests. The professor leaned over & whispered to his wife, "I hope he doesn't come over here." But sure enough, the man did come over to their table.

"Where are you folks from?" he asked in a friendly voice. "Oklahoma," they answered. "Great to have you here in Tennessee," the stranger said. "What do you do for a living?" "I teach at a seminary," the professor replied. "Oh, so you teach preachers how to preach, do you? Well, I've got a really great story for you."

And with that, the gentleman pulled up a chair & sat down at the table with the couple. The man started, "See that mountain over there? (pointing out the restaurant window). Not far from the base of that mountain, there was a boy born to an unwed mother. He had a hard time growing up, because every place he went, he was always asked the same question, "Hey boy, Who's Your Daddy?" Whether he was at school, in the grocery store or drug store, people would ask the same question, "Who's Your Daddy?"

He would hide at recess & lunch time from other students. He would avoid going in to stores because that question hurt him so bad. When he was about 12 years old, a new preacher came to his church. He would always go in late & slip out early to avoid hearing the question, "Who's Your Daddy?". But one day, the new preacher said the benediction so fast that he got caught & had to walk out with the crowd. Just about the time he got to the back door, the new preacher, not knowing anything about him, put his hand on the boy's shoulder & asked him, "Son, Who's Your Daddy?"

Everyone got deathly quiet. He could feel every eye of the crowd looking at him. Now at last everyone would finally know the answer to the question, "Who's Your Daddy?" This new preacher, though, sensed the situation around him & using discernment that only the Holy Spirit could give, said the following to that scared little boy. "Wait a minute! I know who you are! I see the family resemblance now. You are a Child of God!" He patted the boy on his shoulder & said, "Boy, you've got a great inheritance. Go & claim it!" With that, the boy smiled for the first time in a long time & walked out the door a changed person. He was never the same again. Whenever anybody asked him, Who's Your Daddy?" he'd just tell them, "I'm a Child of God."

The distinguished gentleman got up from the table & said, "Isn't that a great story?" The professor responded that it really was a great story! As the man tuned to leave, he said, "You know, if that new preacher hadn't told me that I was one of God's children, I probably never would have amounted to anything!" And he walked away. The seminary professor & his wife were stunned. "Do you know who that man was--the one who just left that was sitting at our table?"

The waitress grinned & said, "Of course. Everybody here knows him. That's Ben Cooper. He's the governor of Tennessee!"

There was a letter to the editor of Reader's Digest which said, "Dear Editor: Some people get squeamish about raising their own turkey for Thanksgiving, but not me. One year we bought a live turkey in January. We called him Clarence & all through the year we fed him, took him for walks, played with him. He was just like one of the family. But when it came November, there was no nonsense about it. We had Clarence for Thanksgiving dinner. He sat on my right."

when one feels melancholy is: 'Think of all the misery in the world & be thankful that you are not sharing it!' MY advice is: 'Go outside, to the fields, enjoy nature & the sunshine. Go out & try to recapture happiness in yourself & in God. Think of all the beauty that's still left in & around you & be happy.'

"I don't see how Mother's idea can be right, because then how are you supposed to behave if you go through the misery yourself? Then you are lost. On the contrary, I've found that there is always some beauty left--in nature, sunshine, freedom, in yourself; these can all help you. Look at these things, then you find yourself again, & God, & then you regain your balance."
